2021 BROCHURE

Differentiated Skills for a Different Era

2020 was in everyone's estimation one of the most challenging years in our entire generation. It was a year of many firsts - the most prominent of which was a global pandemic and a disruption of our private, family, organizational and social lives like we had never seen on such a global scale.

2020 has left in its wake plenty of challenges and loads of opportunities. The economy and society have experienced significant changes that will no doubt affect organizational behaviour and strategy for years to come.

Without notice, organizations needed to capacitate themselves and their employees to work from home, use virtual meeting technology, learn electronically and virtually, while still struggling with declining revenues, job losses, business closures and new opportunities that the new normal brought to all of us. Some also experienced tremendous growth especially in the technology and communication industries. The distinction between pandemic-resilient organizations and the rest of us became very evident.

We ended 2020 with a second and potentially more devastating wave of COVID-19 infections all over the world and here in Nigeria, but also with the release of a vaccine to prevent the further spread of the disease - a glimmer of hope!

We are entering 2021 with optimism and enthusiasm about our future, but this optimism has to be matched by our ability to develop the right skills to cope in the post-pandemic world and take advantage of all the other opportunities that abound.

Besides COVID-19, we also witnessed a global surge in civic awareness and consciousness with the #BlackLivesMatter protests and here in Nigeria - #ENDSARS. The heightened social consciousness will also affect the organizational behaviour and strategy especially in Nigeria as we struggle with some of our own endemic political, social and economic challenges that were further exacerbated by COVID-19.

Our belief at Learning Impact NG is that for organizations and individuals to succeed in 2021 and beyond, a new focus on certain individual and organizational capabilities are required.

Resilience, Agility, Diversity, Learning and Innovation are some of these critical capabilities that we believe will help individuals and organizations to cope and survive in the months and years ahead.

We are therefore encouraging Human Resources Leaders and Learning and Development Managers to engage their organizations to continue to make smart investments in employee development and organizational learning especially using technology that is scalable and content that has a strong local content and context.

Of particular interest for us in 2020 are skills development in Decision Making; Strategy Implementation; Financial Literacy; Risk Management; and Technology Acumen which we believe will help professionals and organizations bolster their Resilience and Agility.

To support Learning and Innovation we believe that organizations should build their professionals in the areas of Creativity & Innovation, Business Case Development; Communication Skills; Training Skills (to support in-house training) and Performance Management.

We are also partnering with the Be Better Foundation to roll-out exciting content that will support the need for a more socially- conscious workforce in three areas - #Civication (Civic Education); #ValuesReorientation (Diversity, Values-Based Leadership and Anti-Corruption) and #Politeracy (Political Literacy). We believe that organizations and individuals cannot keep whining and complaining about the ills of our society without investing in educating and empowering themselves to act and participate in civic affairs in a more meaningful way.

The alternative to a stable democratic society is civil unrest, militarism, violence, anarchy and chaos. The organized private sector and the informal sector that are the largest employers of labour bear the brunt of this chaos and anarchy must #GetInvolved to create a truly democratic society where peace and prosperity reign.

With your cooperation and support we will all overcome the challenges of 2020 and embrace the opportunities of 2021 and beyond with differentiated skills for this different era.

Our Learning Design & Delivery Methodology

Based on our proprietary Learning Impact Model, our team of designers and facilitators at Learning Impact NG are focused on ensuring that the impact of all our solutions are sustained beyond the “event” or ‘intervention’. We pay attention to the following in all our intervention design and delivery:

- Adult Learning Principles - There are a number of principles of adult learning that drive our approach including but not limited to the fact that adult learners are pressed for time; goal-oriented; bring previous knowledge and experience; have a finite capacity for information; have different motivation levels and have different learning styles.
- Human Performance Improvement - We ensure that we undertake a root-cause analysis of the performance challenges that organizations are facing and use this as the basis of designing our solutions and interventions. This way we deal with the real issues and not just the symptoms.
- The Learning Impact Model - We encourage our clients to deploy a learning policy framework that creates awareness and desire through pre-training activities; builds knowledge and ability through the actual content and delivery; and reinforces learning through post-training activities. This way, learning and consulting solutions create real CHANGE in the organizations.
- Programmatic Evaluation - We focus on evaluating the impact of learning using a variety of tools across the four levels of evaluation - reaction, knowledge transfer, behavioural change, and impact.
- Experiential Design & Delivery - We are champions of the use of experiential delivery and facilitation techniques particularly in the areas of indigenous case studies and rich media
- Scalability and Impact: Using learning technology and the support we give to internal faculties with our customizable content, we help to increase the scalability and impact of our solutions.

Our commitment to these underlying principles will ensure that learning creates a CHANGE for your team members and your organization.
